DETAILED ACTION

Receipt is acknowledged of the request for reconsideration filed 05/16/2007.

The following rejection is maintained in this action:

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 18-22, 26-44 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US 4,322,411 (US'411) in view of Hunter et al (US2003/0203976) or Silvestrini (US 5,234,456).

US'411 teaches that 3-deazaadenosine is an anti-inflammatory compound (See Abstract. US'411 does not teach the inclusion of these compounds into a stent coating.

Art Unit: 1615

However, the inclusion of anti-inflammatories into stent coatings is taught by both Hunter et al (see [0151] and Silvestrini (see col.3, line 18). Therefore, those of ordinary skill in the art would have expected similar therapeutic effects from the inclusion of 3-deazaadenosine or an analog thereof into a stent coating given the teaching that these compounds are anti-inflammatories as taught by US'411 and further by both Hunter et al and Silvestrini et al who teach that anti-inflammatories are commonly incorporated into stent coatings. The instant claims setting out the a coated stent comprising 3-deazaadenosine or an analog thereof would have therefore been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention given the teachings of US'411 in view of either Hunter et al or Silvestrini.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 05/17/2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that the rejection of the claims involves improper hindsight reasoning. In response to applicant's argument that the examiner's conclusion of obviousness is based upon improper hindsight reasoning, it must be recognized that any judgment on obviousness is in a sense necessarily a reconstruction based upon hindsight reasoning. But so long as it takes into account only knowledge which was within the level of ordinary skill at the time the claimed invention was made, and does not include knowledge gleaned only from the applicant's disclosure, such a reconstruction is proper. See In re McLaughlin, 443 F.2d 1392, 170 USPQ 209 (CCPA 1971).

Specifically, applicant argues that because Vinegar teaches that 3-deazadenosine is an anti-inflammatory used specifically for certain conditions and administered either orally, systemically or locally. Silvestri teaches that antiinflammatories are known to be used in drug delivery stents. Hunter also teaches the inclusion of antiinflammatories into such compositions. As such, the references teach that antiinflammatories are well known for inclusion into drug delivery stents. Further, those of ordinary skill would expect similar antiinflammatory effects by these stents. As such, any condition which is treatable by anti-inflammatory agents such as restenosis and the other pathologies claimed for treatment in the instant application would also be expected to benefit from such a device. As such, the instant claims would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention given the teachings of the claims. The instant rejection is maintained.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
